IN presenting the public with this STANDARD CATALOGUE OF ROSES, we need not spend a moment in recommendatory remarks.

From time immemorial, the rose has been a favorite, and still continues to hold the proud distinction of 'Queen of Flowers,' with which it was crowned centuries ago. The gifted of every age have loved to sing its praises, and still have left the half unsung.

Its universal cultivation, alone, speaks volumes in its favor. It alike decks the garden of the humble cottager, and the parterre of the rich; and, while it crowns the modesty of the one, it loses none of its transcendent beauties amidst the splendor of the other.

Notwithstanding the universal praise and favor it has received, it is comparatively but a few years since florists have allowed it its due share of attention; but the rapid increase and surpassing splendor of the varieties added to the Catalogues of France and England, since 1840, induces the Rose-growing community to believe that its latent beauties are but in the bud — beginning to unfold themselves — and, that others will soon be produced, that shall infinitely surpass any of the present known varieties.

'Still fairer found, where all is fair,'

This Catalogue contains the greater part, if not all of the present esteemed varieties; and, whatever future valuable sorts may be raised, either in Europe or in this country, will be published in a Supplement.

To varieties in families, which are not generally fragrant, F. is affixed, for fragrant; and F.F. to those which are so in a remarkable degree. The Provence, Moss, French Roses, Hybrid Provence, Damask, Sweet Briars, Damask Perpetual, and Tea-scented Roses, require no such mark, as they are all fragrant, more or less. Those marked P. are strong growers, adapted for pillars.

The following Abbreviations are used to express the form of the Flower: —

Glob., globular. The outer petals encircling the flower, till fully blown, in the manner of the common Cabbage, or Provence Roses.

Exp., expanded. The flower rather flat, petals open, in some varieties showing the central stamens.

Cup., cupped. The outer row of petals erect, rather incurved, inclosing numerous smaller petals. The crimson Perpetual Rose, when first opened, will illustrate this term. Cupped Roses often become compact after the first day of expansion, as the outer row of petals is displaced in very double Roses.

Comp., compact. Petals stiff, close, and upright, resembling a Double Ranunculus.

PRICE. — The size of the plants, and the rarity of the varieties will govern us in our charges for the new sorts. All the old Roses will be supplied at the lowest Boston prices. By the dozen, in families, in assortments, or in large quantities, a liberal deduction will be made. To furnish all the superior varieties, as they shall appear in Europe, will be our constant aim; to enable us to do so, we shall import from the best cultivators of the Rose in England and France, and make selections from the best and most extensive collections in this country. All new and beautiful sorts, which may be deemed worthy of cultivation, will be published in our Supplement, and sent out to order at fair prices.

Plants of the climbing, and of the Bengal, Tea, Noisette, Bourbon, Hybrid perpetual, and all the tender Roses, are kept in pots, and can be packed and sent away with safety at any season of the year.

The hardy kinds of Roses may be safely removed, either in the autumn or spring. For planting out the Bengal, Tea, Noisette, and Bourbon kinds, the months of April and May are the most favorable.

Catalogues will be issued every year, and may be had at our Seed Store, School Street, Boston; and also on application by mail, (postpaid.)

Orders from the South or West, should be received in September, that the plants may be forwarded in the autumn.

Amateurs, and cultivators of flowers, are respectfully invited to visit our Store, where they will find specimen blooms of Camellias, Azaleas, Roses, Tulips, Pansies, Carnations, Dahlias, Ranunculus, and other beautiful plants, in their respective seasons.

Fruit for parties, and family use, of the best kind and quality, constantly for sale.

Also Flowers, Bouquets, Wreaths, Pot Plants, &c. To obtain a liberal supply, timely notice is desirable.

Gardens.—Advice for laying out grounds will be given, and the necessary trees, shrubs, and plants furnished at the lowest nursery prices; suitable men will also be employed to make the improvements when desired.

All kinds of Garden tools and Books on Horticulture, will be supplied.

Orders from unknown correspondents must be accompanied with a remittance or order upon, or reference to, some responsible person in the city of Boston, for the payment of the bill.

Letters on business or making inquiries, must, to insure attention, be postpaid.

Orders by mail will be promptly executed. Address

SAMUEL WALKER,
SCHOOL STREET, BOSTON.

☞ Gentlemen laying out new grounds, plantations, &c. will be supplied with all the beautiful hardy garden Roses by the 100 or 1000; imported direct from Europe, or from our own or other good collections, at the very cheapest rates.

TREE ROSES — (3 to 5 feet high,) very beautiful and highly ornamental, constantly for sale.

 TULIPS. — We have the most extensive collections of Tulips in this country; having paid particular attention to their cultivation for nearly twenty years. Beds of 10 to 50 rows, containing 70 to 350 varieties, will be furnished at lower prices than Tulips of like quality can be imported for. Our whole collection consists of nearly 500 varieties.

Catalogues of Fruit Trees, Greenhouse Plants, Roses, Forest Trees, Ornamental Shrubs, Dahlias, Bulbous Roots, Tulips, &c., Vegetable, Flower, and Agricultural Seeds, &c., may be had separately.

GUANO — In lots to suit purchasers.
